Complaint Made Before U.S. Commissioner McCormick Today In Court At Waco

By The United Press.

WACO, Texas, Aug. 27.—United States Commissioner McCormick took complaints this morning against thirteen of the thirty men arrested at Glen Rose in a huge raid staged by Rangers over the week end. Two of the men included are the county attorney and sheriff of Somervell county. These made verbal statements.

Negro Killed And Another Wounded In Georgia

SAVANNAH, Ga., Aug. 27.—One negro was killed and one wounded early today when a band of white men dashed through East Savannah, a suburb and fired into homes in the negro colony.

The dead negro is Moses Monroe. Walter Young was wounded by a bullet in the leg. About seventy-five shots were fired by the white men.

Police answering a riot call were unable to find a motive for the shooting or a clue to the identity of the perpetrators. They learned that twelve men riding in three large automobiles dashed through the settlement, before dawn, firing and yelling as they passed. Officials believed the men were drunk.

The negro settlement was quiet early today and police said there was little danger of retaliation.

LABOR MEETING THROWN INTO TURMOIL AT K. C.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 27.—The regular meeting of the Central Labor Union of Kansas City was thrown into turmoil here when S. T. Hammermark, a representative of the labor defense council, attempted to uphold the doctrine of William Z. Foster.

Hammermark was attacking William J. Burns and Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty for raiding the Communist convention at Bridgman, Mich., which resulted in trial of Foster on charges of being a Communist, when Charles B. Nelson, secretary of the local union, interrupted, saying:

"If I had known you were going to preach doctrines of radicalism, I would not have let you speak."

"Foster is not a radical," replied Hammermark.

"He is—"

"Sit down!" ordered Nelson.

A motion to adjourn was made while the argument was in progress and the meeting was ended.

Anthracite Coal Strike Only Five Days Off But Governor Pinchot Works With Vigor

By PAUL R. MALLON

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 27.—With an anthracite coal strike now only five days off, Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania, the vigorous progressive Republican, prepared today to talk business with the deadlocked operators and miners.

In a glittering gold decorated reception room at the Capitol he will meet the opposing parties at noon to tell them their difficulties must be settled and the mining of anthracite coal continued.

Pinchot himself would not express optimism over his prospects of success this morning before the conference began.

Mine leaders who came here from Atlantic City to attend the "mysterious conference" fear the enthusiastic Governor can not avoid a strike.

The operators are hopeful but reluctant to express any definite opinion. Pinchot has decided that matters are to be started "wide open." At the first session the newspapermen will be present. Pinchot will then deliver his talk. Afterward there probably will be executive sessions.

Just what plan the Governor may be thinking about still was in doubt at the conference gathered. There were some who expressed the opinion that he may have "no plan at all," merely a program or a soft padded ultimatum to deliver.

The miners intimated strongly that arbitration would be refused as a plan of settlement, but showed a willingness to compromise if the operators would listen to the terms of such a solution.

With all of the doubt pervading the atmosphere as the conference opened, there was an element of hope that the Governor, when he hears the whole story, will see a way out of the deadlock by some suggestion, inspirational or otherwise, that has never been tried before.

Philip Murray, first vice president of the United Mine Workers, is heading the mine delegation. Governor Pinchot has been informed that John L. Lewis, chief of the union, is too ill in Atlantic City to be present.

It is not clear to the Governor just what powers Murray may have to sign or agree to any plan that might be drawn up. There is an impression, however, that the mine delegate would leave any actual step toward settlement to Lewis.

Pinchot expects his conference to last several days. He has sent a representative to New York to work out with conferences from the ten other anthracite consuming states, a plan of flooding bituminous areas in case of a strike.

SPRING LAKE, N. J., Aug. 27.—Play was turned into tragedy when Charles Spindler, 11, and William Hubbard, 16, died after being virtually roasted alive. Dick Forman and Taylor Hubbard are being held pending an investigation. The boys were playing Indian and Charles and William were tied to a tree by the older boys. Excelsior was piled around them and fired, the flames spreading to the oil-soaked ground. The older boys were unable to break through the wall of fire and ran for help. Rescuers found the boys charred and unconscious. "They set fire to us," was the only statement made before they died, refusing to say anything liable to get their companions into trouble.

Mysterious Burglaries Are Being Cleared Away

HOUSTON, Texas, Aug. 27.—Houston's "news butcher-burglar"—a combination that kept local sleuths in hot water for months has been arrested.

With the detention of a Mexican employed as a news butcher on a train running out of Houston, detectives believe they have solved a score or more baffling robberies of recent date. In each instance the Mexican would rob the store late at night, report for work next morning and be miles away when the investigation started.

His unusual method of gaining an entrance also added mystery to the "jobs." He would use a common brace and bit and after boring a series of holes in a circle large enough to admit his body, would give the "wheel" a slight tap and enter.

Investigation Of Fake Oil Promoters Is On

HOUSTON, Texas, August 27.—

Federal investigation into the activities of alleged fake oil stock promoters was under way as the federal grand jury met to hear the charges of Federal Judge J. C. Hutcheson, Jr. The judge asked for a vigorous investigation into the alleged fake stock promoting, and to take special cognizance of violations of the postal laws. More than fifty witnesses are to testify to evidence gathered for several months.

CARNEGIE MOB ATTACK KLANSMEN CRYING "LYNCH THEM" AND "GET ROPES" BEFORE BIG STREET BATTLE

trict Attorney Samuel M. Gardner decided today to prevent further disturbances like the riot in Carnegie late Saturday night which resulted in the shooting to death of Thomas R. Abbott, of Allegheny, Westmore county, a Ku Klux Klansman. Gardner conferred with chiefs of the Klan here and officials of Carnegie in an effort to learn what caused the mob of citizens of Carnegie to attack the Klansmen with clubs and revolvers.

Chief Burgess Conley declared the mob attacked the Klansmen when the latter insisted on holding a parade without a permit. Conley said an application for permission to conduct a parade had been made to him.

Scores of arrests were made but the majority were released after a small fine on a charge of carrying revolvers. One man, Patrick McDermott, an undertaker of Carnegie, who was seen by eye-witnesses holding a revolver at the time Abbott fell, police say, was held in jail.

Dr. W. H. Evans, Imperial Wizard of the Klan who attended the initiation of a class of candidates on the Forsythe farm preceding the riot, announced a reward of $2,500 for arrest and conviction of Abbott's slayers. Sam D. Rich, king klee of the Klan, announced a similar reward.

Twenty Klansmen had gathered at the farm near Carnegie early Saturday evening for the initiation. A number of the Klansmen came into the borough early in the evening and rumor disturbances followed, but it was not until the chiefs of the Klansmen decided to hold a parade against the express order of the chiefs of the town that the riot started.

The mob of Carnegie citizens brandishing clubs and firearms met the marching Klansmen at the Carnegie bridge and warned the parade to cross into town. The marchers proceeded with the parade.

An automobile leading the parade was wrecked as the Carnegie mob flung themselves on the hooded marchers and cursed and threats of "lynch them" and "get ropes" filled the air. The battle lasted for an hour over an area covering four Carnegie city blocks until Pittsburgh police finally arrived with riot guns and clubs and restored order.

Hundreds of Klansmen were unruffled and their tattered robes littered the streets.

Over 300 pieces of firearms from cheap pistols to shot guns were found in the streets when the mob was finally dispersed.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 27.—

Governor Pinchot told the session of miners and operators that their differences must be settled and the strike averted or the state would use every means to protect the public's interests. He advanced no plan but asked them to confer with him privately this afternoon, and the operators tomorrow. Both sides agreed. The rights of fair wages to the miners and fair profits to operators must not be violated, he said.

Laxity Of Local Officials Causes Wave Of Lawlessness Says Governor Pat Neff In Commenting On Raids At Glen Rose

First Christian Church

Service will continue through the week. Morning services at ten o'clock and evening services beginning promptly at eight. Tonight there will be a special song service for the children. All children are invited to take part in this service.

CHICAGO.—George Godfrey, one of Dempsey's sparring partners, and Glen Johnson, who claims the Mexican heavyweight title, will meet here tomorrow night.

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 27.—The wave of lawlessness sweeping the state is due to laxness of local officials in enforcing the laws, Governor Neff declared in commenting on the raid at Glen Rose and recent floggings. Evidence of the laxity of officials in other places has been received and the state will investigate, it is indicated. He declared that we need a law such the "quorum" measure, which failed to pass the last legislature.

Remarried After Being Divorced Just One Month

VICTORIA FALLS, Texas, Aug. 27.

Divorced barely a month, a middle-aged couple applied for a marriage license after having decided to re-marry. The license was granted on the day the husband was a member of the House of David cult.

When he applied for a license his former whiskers had been closely cropped. From all appearances the man had changed his religion to please his better half.

HISTORY OF STEELE FAMILY BROUGHT DOWN TO PRESENT

(A speech delivered on Steele day at Joe Johnston Camp by Hampton Steele on July 26th, 1923.)

Mr. Chairman and Ladies and Gentlemen, Brothers and Sisters: Sixteen years ago last April, we were all together at father's birthday. He was with us on that day. Since then he has passed over on the other side, waiting in the shade for us to come. There were six of us then, there are still six of us yet.

Now friends, brothers and sisters and children: I am going today to give you all a history of the Steele family. Over one hundred and fifty years ago, one day on the Rock-bound coast of old England there stood a young man looking out over the sea for a boat to take him to the New World. The boat came in and he bade farewell to his native land. In the course of time he landed at New York. That was Thomas Steele, our great grandfather.

About the same time there was standing on the sunny shores of France a young man and a young woman. They were looking out over the sea towards the New World. They took a boat, bade farewell to their native land. That was Stephen Pascoe and Susan Pascoe, brother and sister. They fled from France on account of the religious persecution at that time. With due course of time they landed in New York. Late played a part and Susan Pascoe became the wife of Thomas Steele. Hence our great grandfather. They were married in New York. From that marriage there were three boys born to them, Thomas, Stephen and Joseph. The boys grew up to be young men in the State of New York. In the meantime their father died. I have not the date of the death of their father. Somewhere about the close of 1790. So along about the last part of 1800, Susan Pascoe Steele and the three boys emigrated to Kentucky and settled in Hardin County. Then Fate played a part again for Stephen Pascoe. He caught the blue-eyed Susan. Not only did they wed, but married about the year 1815. Hence Susan Pascoe Steele became our grandmother. There were seven children born to Stephen P. Steele and Susan Pascoe Steele, four boys and three girls. The boys, Alvin, our father, Alvarado, Albin and Thomas; the girls, Zerrada, Zelva and Letrena. Our father outlived all of his brothers and sisters. So grandfather and grandmother lived there in the hills of Kentucky and raised their children.

Now I will take up our father's history. He was born on the 9th day of April, 1817 in Hardin County, Ky. He remained there until he was about seventeen years old. That was about the year 1831. He said that he thought there was nothing there for him. So one morning, he walked down to the Ohio River and got aboard of a boat. He said he had no idea where he was going, but he was out for a trip somewhere.

So kept on down the Ohio River, then on down the Mississippi until he got to Lake Providence. There he landed and got a job to work for a man by the name of Richards and so he was settled for awhile. But along about the latter part of 1835 there was great excitement with regard to the war between Texas and Mexico. So there at Lake Providence there was a man by the name of Dagget who raised a company to go to Texas and father joined the company. So he was going again on another adventure like the pioneers of old, which made this country and built our great civilization. So the company reached old Washington just before Christmas 1835. There they found the old pioneers in convention, discussing the question with regard to what Texas should do. Whether they should be driven like slaves across the Sabine River or raise an army and fight them to the last ditch. So when father reached Washington the Convention was still in session. They had not decided as to what course to pursue. Capt. Dagget told his company he would take them back if they wanted to go back, but father said, "No I am not going back. I came to stay and I am going to see it through." So there he was a thousand miles from home and nothing to go on. All he had was his horse and gun. There was a man by the name of Roberts who was running a hotel and feeding the old pioneers that were holding the convention and father went to him and told him of his condition; that he wanted to stay and get in the scrap when it came off. So Roberts told him and Sam Wiley, that was father's chum, that if they would grind corn on the steel mill to make bread for the convention, he would take care of them and they would make themselves at home with him. So, our father, ground the corn to meal to feed the old pioneers that declared the Independence of Texas, March 1836.

The war was on. Sam Houston was put at the head of the army. Father was right then on the ground. Enlisted right off. Was with Houston to the end of the war. Houston collected all the men he could get and moved down on the Colorado River to intercept and take care of the women and children that were fleeing before the Mexican army. So Houston fell back to the Brazos River and camped in the bottom there for several days. One day Deaf Smith brought in a Mexican courier that gave the information to Houston that the Mexican army had divided. One part had gone toward Harrisburg, so Houston, on getting that information, Houston broke camp and took after them. It took him all day to cross the Brazos River where he made camp and the next morning everything was moving early. The roads forked about two miles from Darjahue Houston was ahead of his men. Father Laredo rode out in the forks of the road and when the sun came he said, "Take that road," that road led down to Harrisburg. The men then knew that they were after the Mexican army. So when they got to Harrisburg, the Mexican army had been there and destroyed everything. Houston left his baggage and some of the boys that were sick, crossed the Bayou and made a forced march down to San Jacinto. They marched all night to San Jacinto ground about sun up. Little did they think that night when they were tramping down that road that the deeds of valor they would accomplish in the next 48 hours would ring around over Texas for centuries. There they were without a bite to eat. Houston ordered some cattle killed, so his men could get something to eat. About the time they got their fires going the Mexican army came marching over the hill about a mile away and camped. On April 20, 1836, Houston had beaten old Santa Anna to the place which I will prove to you now. Some of the boys were along down the Bayou below camp and they saw a sailboat coming up the Bayou. They hid in the grass and when the boat came up to them, they saw that Mexicans were on the boat so they rose up and demanded that they surrender. The Mexicans then jumped off the boat and swam to the shore. They boys went in and got the boat and found that it was loaded with flour and salt. That shows conclusively that the Mexicans found Sam Houston's army right where they expected the Mexican army to be. That shows Sam Houston beat them to the place. The boys feasted that evening as they had bread and salt. Well, the 21st of April came in bright and clear. All nature was smiling, the flowers were in bloom and the birds were singing, a token as to what would take place that day that Texans will never forget.

About sunrise that morning the bugle sounded over at the Mexican camp. They had received 500 more men but that had no terror for the Texans. Gen. Houston ordered Lieut. Bennet of Sherman's regiment, that was the regiment that father was in, to visit all the companies and ask them if they were ready for battle and they answered with one accord that they were ready. Houston said that the battle would come off to-day. He sent Deaf Smith to destroy Vines bridge across the Bayou. It was the only outlet to get out. Houston knew that he would not have use for the bridge to get out of there because his army would all die fighting, if they did not whip the Mexicans; and, if they did whip them, he wanted to get them all so he formed his army about 2 o'clock and all in readiness when Deaf Smith came running up on his horse and waved his axe and said: "General, the bridge is down." Sam Houston called out in a clear voice to his aide: "Tell Col. Sherman to bring on the

Somervell Officials Face Federal Complaint Play Turns To Tragedy When Lads Play Indians

Complaint Made Before U.S. Commissioner McCormick Today In Court At Waco

By The United Press.

WACO, Texas, Aug. 27.—United States Commissioner McCormick took complaints this morning against thirteen of the thirty men arrested at Glen Rose in a huge raid staged by Rangers over the week end. Two of the men included are the county attorney and sheriff of Somervell county. These made verbal statements.

In The Boom

During the rush a certain young woman, twenty two or three years old, went to a lawyer's office to see about collecting a debt. She was a widow and had two children, about eighteen months and three years old.

The woman was neatly and simply dressed. There was that inexplicable something in her manner and bearing that caused a man to reach for his hat. The children were bright youngsters, well behaved, and showed they were well cared for. Their clothes were worn, but they were clean.

They were living in a town of two thousand inhabitants half across the state when oil was struck in Mexia. Times were hard and she was having an awful struggle to make a living for herself and the children. She read in the papers about the prosperity in Mexia, and decided to come here.

She left home with only hers and the children's fare. Naturally she took the first job offered her, cooking in a boarding house on the Teahuacana-Mexia highway. Her pay was board for herself and the children, and ten dollars a week, payable at the end of the week.

The first week she received her pay, but then her employer refused to pay her at the end of the second week, told her that board for her and the children was itself sufficient pay for cooking and washing dishes from four in the morning until late at night.

The lawyer filed suit and levied on the cook stove and cooking utensils in the boarding house, and in the suit asked for an attorney fee of $10. The employer consulted a lawyer and decided to pay the claim and attorney fee without going to court. Both the claim and attorney fee were given to the girl, neither the lawyer nor the officer serving the papers making any charge.

The lawyer promptly forgot about the girl and never saw her again. A couple of months later his assistant was headed toward "Juarez." In front of Berry-Barnett's, a young woman passed him coming from "Juarez."

She was dressed in silk. She had that grace and ease that is supposed to be a mark of the high class. Her general appearance was grand.

As they met she smiled and nodded to him. He thought she had made a mistake, for he did not recognize her, and yet he thought possibly he had seen her. He showed his habitually slow gait and stepped to the side of the walk, and watched her.

It was some time before he could place her. She was the girl who had come to the office with the two children. Compared her as she was then and now.

It was not the sudden acquisition of the polished air nor the exquisite clothes that worried the lawyer's assistant, but the smile the girl had applied for a marriage license after having decided to try again.

The divorce was granted on the grounds that the husband was a member of the House of David cult. When he applied for a license his flowing whiskers had been closely cropped. From all appearances the groom had changed his religion to please his better half.

The raiding rangers worked swiftly, rounding up suspects throughout a section 20 miles long and several miles wide. The raids started without warning early Saturday and lasted until Sunday afternoon.

A truck load of stills, coils, condensers and other paraphernalia was dumped on the lawn of the Somervell county courthouse to be used as evidence.

Sheriff Davis who was among the first to be taken, spent Saturday behind the bars in his own jail. Sunday he was released while he assisted officers in hunting down suspects and stills.

Most of the arrested men will be held in jail at Cleburne until arraigned.

E. L. SMITH OIL COMPANY WELLS APPROACHING PRODUCTION

The Powell area of the great Mexican oil producing district witnessed the completion of fourteen large producers last week, with the completion of two wells Saturday night. The Gulf Gentry came in making 240 barrels the first hour. About the same time the Tidal Company completed the Ramsey B-1, which is flowing at the rate of 8,500 barrels daily.

The Humble Company set the liner on the Kent No. 3, and it will be in tonight or Monday. The Humble McKie No. A-7 and the Humble Irvine No. C-6 are drilling in the sands and are expected in Monday.

The E. L. Smith Oil Company's Ramsey No. 1, which set casing at 2925 feet, elevation 410, is today making at the rate of 8,000 barrels daily through a choke.

The same company set casing Friday in its number 2 Ramsey at 2850 feet. The sand was struck in this well at 2001, with an elevation of 402. The Number 4 got the sand at 2875 feet, elevation 399. This shows a difference of 44 feet from the number 1 well. The Company is now preparing to drill in Nos. 3 and 4. The bit is about 27 feet in the sand on Number 4 and about 18 feet in on No. 3. It is expected to go about 60 feet in the sand, which is a very hard formation. Seven bits were bent in going the 27 feet.

The 31 malia Kent is now making 500 barrels hourly. It came in for 15,000 barrels.

Negro Killed And Another Wounded In Georgia

SAVANNAH, Ga., Aug. 27.—One negro was killed and one wounded early today when a band of white men dashed through East Savannah a suburb and fired into homes in the negro colony.

The dead negro is Moses Monroe. Walter Young was wounded by a bullet in the leg. About seventy-five shots were fired by the white men.

Police answering a riot call were unable to find a motive for the shooting or a clue to the identity of the perpetrators. They learned that twelve men riding in three large automobiles dashed through the settlement, before dawn, firing and yelling as they passed. Officials believed the men were drunk.

The negro settlement was quiet early today and police said there was little danger of retaliation.

LABOR MEETING THROWN INTO TURMOIL AT K. C.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 27.—The regular meeting of the Central Labor Union of Kansas City was thrown into turmoil here when S. T. Hammermark, a representative of the labor defense council, attempted to uphold the doctrine of William Z. Foster.

Hammermark was attacking William J. Burns and Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty for raiding the Communist convention at Bridgman, Mich., which resulted in trial of Foster on charges of being a Communist, when Charles B. Nelson, secretary of the local union, interrupted, saying: "If I had known you were going to preach doctrines of radicalism, I would not have let you speak."

"Foster is not a radical," replied Hammermark.

"He is—" ordered Nelson.

A motion to adjourn was made while the argument was in progress and the meeting was ended.

Anthracite Coal Strike Only Five Days Off But Governor Pinchot Works With Vigor

By PAUL R. MALLON (United Press Staff Correspondent)

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 27.—With an anthracite coal strike now only five days off, Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania, the vigorous progressive Republican, prepared today to talk business with the deadlocked operators and miners.

In a glittering gold decorated reception room at the Capitol he will meet the opposing parties at noon to tell them their difficulties must be settled and the mining of anthracite coal continued.

Pinchot himself would not express optimism over his prospects of success this morning before the conference began.

Mine leaders who came here from Atlantic City to attend the "mysterious conference" fear the enthusiastic Governor can not avoid a strike.

The operators are hopeful but reluctant to express any definite opinion. Pinchot has decided that matters are to be started "wide open." At the first session the newspapermen will be present. Pinchot will then deliver his talk. Afterward there probably will be executive sessions.

Just what plan the Governor may be thinking about still was in doubt as the conferees gathered. There were some who expressed the opinion that he may have "no plan at all," merely a program or a soft padded ultimatum to deliver.

The miners intimated strongly that arbitration would be refused as a plan of settlement, but showed a willingness to compromise if the operators would listen to the terms of such a solution.

With all of the doubt pervading the atmosphere as the conference opened, there was an element of hope that the Governor, when he hears the whole story, will see a way out of the deadlock by some suggestion, inspirational or otherwise, that has never been tried before.

Philip Murray, first vice president of the United Mine Workers, is heading the miner delegation. Governor Pinchot has been informed that John L. Lewis, chief of the union, is too ill in Atlantic City to be present.

It is not clear to the Governor just what powers Murray may have to sign or agree to any plan that might be drawn up. There is an impression, however, that the miner delegates would leave any actual step toward settlement to Lewis.

Pinchot expects his conference to last several days. He has sent a representative to New York to work out with conferees from the ten other anthracite consuming states, a plan of flooding bituminous areas in case of a strike.

SPRING LAKE, N. J., Aug. 27.—Play was turned into tragedy when Charles Spindler, 11, and William Hubbard, 16, died after being virtually roasted alive. Dick Forman and Taylor Hubbard are being held pending an investigation. The boys were playing Indian and Charles and William were tied to a tree by the older boys. Excelsior was piled around them and fired, the flames spreading to the oil-soaked ground. The older boys were unable to break through the wall of fire and ran for help. Rescuers found the boys charred and unconscious. "They set fire to us," was the only statement made before they died, refusing to say anything liable to get their companions into trouble.

Mysterious Burglaries Are Being Cleared Away

HOUSTON, Texas, Aug. 27.—Houston's "news butcher-burglar"—a combination that kept local sleuths in hot water for months has been arrested.

With the detention of a Mexican employed as a news butcher on a train running out of Houston, detectives believe they have solved a score or more baffling robberies of recent date. In each instance the Mexican would rob the store late at night, report for work next morning and be miles away when the investigation started.

His unusual method of gaining an entrance also added mystery to the "jobs." He would use a common brace and bit and after boring a series of holes in a circle large enough to admit his body, would give the "wheel" a slight tap and enter.

Investigation Of Fake Oil Promoters Is On

HOUSTON, Texas, August 27.—Federal investigation into the activities of alleged fake oil stock promoters was under way as the federal grand jury met to hear the charges of Federal Judge J. C. Hutcheson, Jr. The judge asked for a vigorous investigation into the alleged fake stock promoting, and to take special cognizance of violations of the postal laws. More than fifty witnesses are to testify to evidence gathered for several months.

trict Attorney Samuel N. Gardner decided today to prevent further disturbances like the riot in Carnegie late Saturday night which resulted in the shooting to death of Thomas R. Abbott, of Atlasburg, Washington county, a Ku Klux Klansman.

Gardner conferred with chiefs of the Klan here and officials of Carnegie in an effort to learn what caused the mob of citizens of Carnegie to attack the Klansmen with clubs and revolvers.

Chief Burgess Conley declared the mob attacked the Klansmen when the latter insisted on holding a parade without a permit. Conley said no application for permission to conduct a parade had been made to him.

Scores of arrests were made but the majority were released after a small fine on a charge of carrying revolvers. One man, Patrick McDermott, an undertaker of Carnegie, who was seen by eye-witnesses, holding a revolver at the time Abbott fell, police say, was held in jail.

Dr. W. H. Evans, Imperial Wizard of the Klan who attended the initiation of a class of candidates on the Forsythe farm preceding the rioting announced a reward of $2,500 for arrest and conviction of Abbott's slayers. Sam D. Rich, king klegale of the Klan, announced a similar reward.

Twenty thousand Klansmen had gathered at the Forsythe farm near Carnegie early Saturday evening for the initiation. A number of the Klansmen came into the borough limits early in the evening and minor disturbances followed, but it was not until the chiefs of the Klansmen decided to hold a parade against the express order of the officials of the town that the riot started.

The mob of Carnegie citizens brandishing clubs and firearms met the marching Klansmen at the Carnegie bridge and warned them not to cross into town. The marchers proceeded with the parade.

An automobile leading the parade was wrecked as the Carnegie mob flung themselves on the hooded marchers and curses and threats of "lynch them," and "get ropes," filled the air. The battle lasted for an hour over an area covering four Carnegie city blocks until Pittsburgh police finally arrived with riot guns and clubs and restored order.

Hundreds of Klansmen were unmasked and their tattered robes littered the streets.

Over 300 pieces of firearms from cheap pistols to shot guns were found in the streets when the mob was finally dispersed.

PINCHOT SAYS STATE WILL DEAL FIRMLY AND JUSTLY IN EFFORTS TO PREVENT STRIKE OF MINERS

Muckleroy, who will be their guest for a few days.

Mr. Stollenwerck says that the counties north of us unquestionably have the best of us so far as the condition of the cotton crop is concerned, but even at that he is of the opinion that Mexia is in much better shape than the towns he visited. The people in the counties visited realize that the heavy cotton receipts of the early part of the season indicate a very short crop.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 27.—Governor Pinchot told the session of miners and operators that their differences must be settled and the strike averted or the state would use every means to protect the public's interests. He advanced no plan but asked them to confer with him privately this afternoon, and the operators tomorrow. Both sides agreed. The rights of fair wages to the miners and fair profits to operators must not be violated, he said.

IN THE BLOOD.
(Atlanta Journal)

In Georgia, recently a four-year-old girl rescued her little brother from drowning; and a two-and-a-half-year-old baby girl, after a half-hour search was found down in a well, rescuing herself by clinging to a projecting brick. Now, and even more remarkable feat of a baby girl is reported from Chippewa Falls, Wisconsin. Marilyn Jean Anderson, three-and-a-half-months old, slipped from her mother's arm, fell twenty five feet into the river, supported herself by kicks and was rescued "gurgling with delight."

It is from girls like these that America raises her fighters of the land and the sea. The Revolutionary war, the Indian wars, the Spanish-American and the World war—their message is in the blood. It would be interesting to watch the three little girls develop into womanhood. They are not to be slackers in the battle of life. War may not demand a sacrifice at their hands but they will carry the right ballots on election days—at least the voters they think are right. They have been baptized into self-sacrifice.

Texans Have Had Leading Part In Building Legion; Mexia Well Represented.

The birth of the American Legion Legion proved itself to the people of in Texas was the natural outcome of Texas. A question of shortage of the activities taken in forming that approximately $23,000 having occurred during a previous regime in the Lone Star State. Henry D. Lindley of Dallas, later to become the first national commander of the organization, was closely associated with Colonel Milton D. Bereman, commander of the 122nd field artillery of the 32nd division which trained at Camp Legian.

Upon the return of the Texas men from France steps were taken immediately to form local posts of the Legion over the State. Naturally this took place in the larger cities of the State, Dallas, Fort Worth, Waco, El Paso, though many of the smaller towns and cities also established posts. Considerable rivalry developed between the larger cities as to the size of their posts and strenuous campaigns were put on to enlist members and to win the honor of the first State convention. Dallas won out in both points, and the first convention was held at that city in 1919. Delegates to this convention were elected to the first national convention which was held at Minneapolis that same year, though a previous preliminary meeting to form tentative organization had been held by posts all over the United States at St. Louis the year earlier.

Two National Commanders

It was a compliment to Texas that Colonel Lindley was chosen by the Minneapolis convention as the first national executive of the Legion. Lindley, Texas man, won the honor of a national commander when Alvin Owsley of Denver was elected the fifth commander of the organization at New Orleans in 1922.

Guy O. Shirey of Fort Worth was elected State commander at the convention at Houston in 1923, but later during his term resigned from office due to internal difficulties within the State department. Shirey was succeeded to office by Major Jay Rossiter of Houston, who retired when the beginning of the State hospital at Kerrville caring for the disabled and unfortunate former soldiers; a few to legalize boxing bouts, not for money but for prizes, under the auspices of the

Crowds Overflow Christian Church Sunday Night

Sowing And Reaping Is Subject Of Thoughtful Message By The Evangelist At Inspiring Hour

"Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." Galatians 6-7.

This was the text used Sunday night for a thoughtful message by Dr. Motley. It was one of the greatest sermons that he has yet brought to Mexia, after a week of successful revival services at the First Christian Church.

Large congregations assembled at both morning and evening hours and at the 8:00 o'clock service, scores were turned away, unable to secure a place in the crowded church building. Every seat in every part of the church was taken and many stood or were seated in the entrance, extending to the steps in front.

The song service preceding the sermon was an inspiration. One of the largest choirs to be seen in Mexia for several years is helping in the song services which are being led by Dr. Mitchell.

Sunday night, in addition to the usual gospel singing by the congregation, Messrs. Beene, Baxter, Samford and Littman sang an appreciated quartet number and a solo was beautifully rendered by Dr. Mitchell.

The speaker stated at the outset that St. Paul, inspired of God, when he wrote the text had in mind the old fashioned way of sowing, when he said that "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." The old way was followed by early settlers in this country. He said his father would take a basket or a sack and place it on his arm and at sowing time would go out and over the fields he would march, using his hand in sowing the grain, a handful at every step. It was pointed out that man sows at every step in this life, and that which he sows, he will reap.

We may sow to the flesh or sow to the spirit and our harvest will be accordingly. We may sow to the flesh and reap corruption. We may sow to the spirit and reap with enduring profit.

The sermon was replete with graphic illustrations from life, showing that the scripture is literally true. "God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap," Dr. Motley repeated time and again, emphasizing the responsibility which is upon every individual.

We reap just what we sow, the speaker stated, the word "that" used in the scripture means "that very thing." You cannot sow bad deeds and reap good ones; you cannot sow evil thoughts and reap a pure life; you cannot sow profanity and reap clean living; you cannot sow hate and reap love.

If a man sows wheat, he expects to reap a harvest of wheat. It is like wise true in the spiritual realm as well as in the world of nature all about us.

Moreover, a man reaps more than he sows. If he did not in the natural

A Supper
That millions are now serving

Quaker Puffed Wheat in milk is the greatest night dish homes have ever served.

The grains are steam exploded—puffed to 8 times normal size. Each is a tidbit, airy, toasted, savory, crisp.

Over 125 million steam explosions are caused in every kernel. Thus the food cells are broken for easy digestion.

So here is whole wheat made delicious and digestible. Children revel in it. And whole wheat supplies 16 elements they need.

A Breakfast
Which can never be excelled

Quaker Puffed Rice stands supreme among all cereal dainties. Each grain is a nut-like puff.

It forms a food confection. Serve with cream and sugar. Mix in every dish of fruit. Crisp and serve with melted butter for children to eat like peanuts when at play.

The great food essentials—minerals, vitamins, bran

Whole wheat supplies 12 minerals which growing children must have. It supplies their need of bran. And milk is rich in vitamins.

You want your family, every day, to get these elements in plenty. Then serve in this delightful form.

Never let a day go by without at least one serving of Quaker Puffed Wheat in milk.

Legion, which failed of passage in the senate, establishing employment bureau for ex-service men, prohibiting the misuse of the national colors for advertising and other purposes, sending speakers into the public schools to make addresses on American citizenship and duties, fostering better citizenship and civic duties, are among some of the activities of the Legion in Texas.

Keeping strictly to the preamble of the national constitution, policies, not politics, the Legion has refused to become a party to political quarrels in the State or in county or municipal campaigns, or to endorse any man or set of men for political office.

Peace Safeguard.

It has on several occasions placed its membership at the service of the municipalities in time of disaster or disorder, and there is no question that the knowledge of a body of well trained, ex-service men, ready for any emergency, has brought reassurance in times of stress.

The Legion conventions, both State and national, have proved a splendid training for men of the Legion in matters of legislation and representative government. Policies of both State and nation are surprisingly well known, ably discussed and intelligently voted upon. State nation and even world wide views on matters of first importance are here brought to the attention of the members for consideration by men from Maine to California, Michigan to Texas and even Europe.

Attending, listening and speaking at the huge national convention held at Kansas City in 1922, it was no less a person than that wise old diplomat and soldier, Marshal Foch, who said: "The future of America is safe in the hands of the American Legion."

In the development of the Legion, Nowlin Post Commander, Owen F. Watkins, has had a noteworthy part. He has been officially connected with the State organization ever since the armistice was signed. He and a number of Mexia veterans are in attendance upon the convention at Galveston, representing the Mexia Post which is one of the largest units of the organization in Texas. Mexia will be heard from there. The delegation left unimpaired but will vote 25 votes as a unit, in the important matters that will be up for consideration.

HISTORY OF STEELE FAMILY BROUGHT DOWN TO PRESENT

Mr. Chairman and Ladies and Gentlemen, Brothers and Sisters: Sixteen years ago last April, we were all together at father's birthday. He was with us on that day. Since then he has passed over on the other side, waiting in the shade for us to come. There were six of us then, there are still six of us yet.

Now friends, brothers and sisters and children, I am going today to give you all a history of the Steele family. Over one hundred and fifty years ago, one day on the Rock-bound coast of old England there stood a young man looking out over the sea for a boat to take him to the New World. The boat came in and he bade farewell to his native land. In due course of time he landed at New York. That was Thomas Steele, our great grandfather.

About the same time there was standing on the sunny shores of France a young man and a young woman. They were looking out over the sea towards the New World. They took a boat, bid farewell to their native land. That was Stephen Pascot and Susan Pascot, brother and sister. They fled from France on account of the religious persecution at that time. With due course of time they landed in New York. Fate played a part and Susan Pascot became the wife of Thomas Steele. Hence our great grandmother. They were married in New York. From that marriage there was three boys born to them, Thomas, Stephen and Joseph. The boys grew up to be young men in the State of New York. In the meantime their father died. I have not the date of the death of their father. Somewhere about the close of 1790. So along about the last part of 1800 Susan Pascot Steele and the three boys emigrated to Kentucky and settled in Hardin County. Then Fate played a part again for Stephen P. Steele caught the blue eyed Susan McCarty and they were married about the year 1815. Hence Susan McCarty Steele became our grandmother. There were seven children born to Stephen P. Steele and Susan McCarty Steele, four boys and three girls. The boys, Alphonso, our father, Alvarado, Alvin and Thomas. The girls, Zerrada, Zelina and Lerena. Our father out lived all of his brothers and sisters. So grandfather and grandmother lived there in the hills of Kentucky and raised their children.

Now I will take up our father's history. He was born on the 9th day of April, 1817 in Hardin County, Ky. He remained there until he was about seventeen years old. That was about the year 1834. He said that he thought there was nothing there for him. So one morning, he walked down to the Ohio River and got aboard of a boat. He said he had no idea where he was going, but he was out for a trip somewhere.

So kept on down the Ohio River, then on down the Mississippi until he got to Lake Providence. There he landed and got a job to work for a man by the name of Richards and so he was settled for awhile. But along about the latter part of 1835 there was great excitement with regard to the war between Texas and Mexico. So there at Lake Providence there was a man by the name of Dagget who raised a company to go to Texas and father joined the company. So he was going again on another adventure like the pioneers of old, which made this country and built our great civilization. So the company reached old Washington just before Christmas 1835. There they found the old pioneers in convention, discussing the question with regard to what Texas should do. Whether they should be driven like slaves across the Sabine River or raise an army and fight them to the last ditch. So when father reached Washington the Convention was still in session. They had not decided as to what course to pursue. Capt. Dagget told his company he would take them back if they wanted to go back, but father said, "No I am not going back. I came to stay and I am going to see it through." So there he was a thousand miles from home and nothing to go on. All he had was his horse and gun. There was a man by the name of Roberts who was running a hotel and feeding the old pioneers that were holding the convention and father went to him and told him of his condition; that he wanted to stay and get in the scrap when it came off. So Roberts told him and Sam Wiley, that was father's chum, that if they would grind corn on the steel mill to make bread for the convention, he would take care of them and they would make themselves at home with him. So, our father, ground the corn to meal to feed the old pioneers that declared the Independence of Texas, March 1836.

The war was on. Sam Houston was put at the head of the army. Father was right then on the ground. Enlisted right off. Was with Houston to the end of the war. Houston collected all the men he could get and moved down on the Colorado River to intercept and take care of the women and children that were fleeing before the Mexican army. So Houston fell back to the Brazos River and camped in the bottom there for several days. One day Deaf Smith brought in a Mexican courier that gave the information to Houston that the Mexican army had divided. One part had gone toward Harrisburg, so Houston, on getting that information, Houston broke camp and took after them. It took him all day to cross the Brazos River where he made camp and the next morning everything was moving early. The roads forked about two miles from Darjahue. Houston was ahead of his men. Father Laredo rode out in the forks of the road and when the sun came he said, "Take that road," that road led down to Harrisburg. The men then knew that they were after the Mexican army. So when they got to Harrisburg, the Mexican army had been there and destroyed everything. Houston left his baggage and some of the boys that were sick, crossed the Bayou and made a forced march down to San Jacinto. They marched all night to San Jacinto ground about sun up. Little did they think that night when they were tramping down that road that the deeds of valor they would accomplish in the next 48 hours would ring around over Texas for centuries. There they were without a bite to eat. Houston ordered some cattle killed, so his men could get something to eat. About the time they got their fires going the Mexican army came marching over the hill about a mile away and camped. On April 20, 1836, Houston had beaten old Santa Anna to the place which I will prove to you now. Some of the boys were along down the Bayou below camp and they saw a sailboat coming up the Bayou. They hid in the grass and when the boat came up to them, they saw that Mexicans were on the boat so they rose up and demanded that they surrender. The Mexicans then jumped off the boat and swam to the shore. They boys went in and got the boat and found that it was loaded with flour and salt. That shows conclusively that the Mexicans found Sam Houston's army right where they expected the Mexican army to be. That shows Sam Houston beat them to the place. The boys feasted that evening as they had bread and salt. Well, the 21st of April came in bright and clear. All nature was smiling, the flowers were in bloom and the birds were singing, a token as to what would take place that day that Texans will never forget.

About sunrise that morning the bugle sounded over at the Mexican camp. They had received 600 more men but that had no terror for the Texans. Gen. Houston ordered Lieut. Bennet of Sherman's regiment, that was the regiment that father was in, to visit all the companies and ask them if they were ready for battle and they answered with one accord that they were ready. Houston said that the battle would come off today. He sent Deaf Smith to destroy Vines bridge across the Bayou. It was the only outlet to get out. Houston knew that he would not have use for the bridge to get out of there because his army would all die fighting, if they did not whip them, he wanted to get them all so he formed his army about 2 o'clock and all in readiness when Deaf Smith came running up on his horse and waved his axe and said: "General, the bridge is down." Sam Houston called out in a clear voice to his aide: "Tell Col. Sherman to bring on the Business and Financial Condition in U. S.

Despite the strength of restraining influences upon trade, both domestic and foreign, including the customary seasonal factors tending to lessen activity, there has been only a moderate retardation recently in production and distribution in the United States, according to "The Quarterly Survey," published today by the Guaranty Trust Company of New York.

It is evident, the "Survey" continues, from a general view of domestic production and distribution that the volume of current business remains large when measured by any other than peak standards. The decline in prices and recession in the volume of business are not accompanied by the usual initial characteristics of a major depression. Inventories are generally conservative, bank credit is not over-extended, and interest rates remain moderate. Instead of the over-expansion of construction which has usually preceded drastic and prolonged depression, there remains a general shortage of housing and other construction. The reaction both in security and commodity markets from the levels of the early months of the year has prepared the way for more nearly stable and normal business. And the full seasonal stimulus may be expected to quicken the pace of industry and trade. The railroads have prepared for the movement of an unprecedented volume of freight. Altogether, these are conditions favorable to a continuation of good business.

Some Retarding Influences

"On the other hand, the sharp decline in prices both in security and commodity markets, accompanied by a reaction in demand buying, has somewhat weakened general confidence.

"A fundamental difficulty confronting American business is the depressed condition of the export trade. The volume of exports—allowance being made for price changes—is running far below what may be considered normal and has been less this summer than at any time since 1914. The volume of exports, however, reached an unprecedented level in March, followed by a considerable decline with the relaxation of demand for foreign raw materials. Preliminary figures show an excess of exports in July to the value of $25,000,000, the first monthly export balance since February.

Low Prices of Farm Products

"The unequal sharing of prosperity between manufacturing and agriculture and the resulting discontent of the farmers in certain sections of the country is closely linked with the low export prices of leading farm products, and as which govern in domestic markets as well. And out of this discontent grows the menace of possible new legislation in the effort to provide some means of relief from these adverse conditions.

"Not all agricultural products, however, are depressed in value. While prices of wheat and livestock are particularly low, the price of cotton is high and that of corn fairly in line with general prices.

"Nothing can be done which would suddenly remove all the obstacles to a vigorous export trade, promptly restore a satisfactory level of prices for wheat and other agriculture products, and thus fill the most conspicuous gap in the existing basis for sustained prosperity. But it is obvious that the main corrective which may be looked for must await a solution of Europe's—and the world's—crisis problem.

"The migration of workers from rural to urban districts will tend to effect a better balance between the war and from the subsequent period of depression. The reaccumulation of customary inventories of finished goods and materials for manufacture was supplemented by a large volume of purchases which represented capital outlay, such, for example, as the expansion of railroad equipment and the provision of new housing and public improvements.

"The unusual gaps in inventories and equipment having been filled for the most part, the recent slowing down of production to a pace more nearly in conformity with current trade requirements represented a wholesome caution in the matter of future commitments. Even in the building industry, in which a pronounced shortage continues, the danger of runaway markets in the spring was recognized and a substantial curtailment in new undertakings was effected. This cautious attitude is in sharp contrast to the rampant optimism which incurred a heavy penalty in 1920 and 1921 and it has been invaluable in preserving the bases of a substantial but tempered prosperity."

Texas Has The Fourth Largest Clock in World

BEAUMONT, Texas, Aug. 27.—Work of installing the fourth largest clock in the world in the tower of the San Jacinto building here was progressing rapidly today.

The immense timepiece weighs from six to eight tons and it will take three months to complete installation. The dial is seventeen feet in diameter and the minute hand is ten feet long, and weighs seventy-five pounds. The minute hand will jump one foot every minute in moving around the dial.

The three other larger clocks are located in the Wrigley Building in Chicago; Union Pacific Building in San Francisco; and the Colgate Building in New York City.

HISTORIC WHALER USED IN FILMING SCENES OF THE 'JAVA HEAD'

The romance of adventure on seven seas clings to the oldest whaling bark afloat, the Charles W. Morgan, built in 1841, which was used by Director George Melford in his screen production of "Java Head" for Paramount and which will be on view at the National Theatre for two days, beginning Monday.

The vessel was constructed of the best materials obtainable and was copper fastened throughout. Her first voyage was to the Pacific under Captain Norton in 1841. She was out about three years and three months and returned laden with cargoes of sperm oil, whale oil and whalebone. Her second voyage, also of three years' duration, was to the Indian Ocean, from which trip she also brought oil. She then passed into the ownership of Edward Mott Robinson, father of famous "Hetty Green," and then followed several successful trips, after which she changed hands several times.

This vessel has always been employed in the whaling business, except for her one voyage after sea elephants. From the length of service at sea and short stops in port between voyages, she has probably sailed in more oceans, for longer periods and over more miles than any other sailing vessel. She has rounded Cape Horn many times in the worst storms, but has never weakened. She is still a splendid ship, and has been immortalized in paintings by Clifford W. Ashely, New Bedford's greatest painter of whaling ships.

For purposes of the Joseph Hergesheimer story it was necessary to transform the Morgan into a clipper ship of the type which brought silks and spices to Salem harbor from China and India. By putting yards on the mizzenmast the craft was converted into a full "square rigger."

It is on this vessel that many of the most dramatic scenes of "Java Head"

—and feeding on birdseed will not improve its voice.

A manufacturer might deliberately set out to make a valve cup that resembled the Darcova in every way. He might even mark it with an orange label so that it outwardly looked as much like a genuine Darcova as one of the Siamese Twins looked like the other. But even that wouldn't make it a Darcova.

For you'll find Darcova quality, service, and economy only where you find the Darcova name.

THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COMMISSION OF THE CITY OF MEXIA, That the plans and specifications and report or statement of the City Engineer filed with the City Commission, describing the abutting property and giving the names of property owners, and number of front feet and the cost of improvement chargeable against each abutting property and its owner, having been duly examined, is hereby approved. That the City Commission does hereby determine to assess the entire cost of curbs and three-fourth of the cost of all other improvements, against the owners of the property abutting thereon, and against their property in accordance with the terms of Chapter 11, Title 22, Revised Statutes of Texas of 1911, and the Charter and Ordinances of the City of Mexia. That the proportionate cost of such improvement which is contemplated to be assessed against such owners and their properties shall become due and payable in five equal installments, one-fifth thirty days after the completion and acceptance of the improvement on said street, one fifth one year after said date, one fifth two years after said date, one fifth three years after said date, and one fifth four years after said date, together with interest at the rate of eight per cent per annum from the date of completion and acceptance of the improvement on the particular street or portion thereof named to be improved. That the total proportionate part of the cost of such improvement which is contemplated to be assessed against such owners and their respective properties and the names of the owners of property abutting upon said street aforesaid, properties to be improved, and the description of that property, and the several amounts proposed to be assessed against them respectively for paving and for curb and gutter, and the grand total thereof, is as follows:

attack." So they went after them yelling, "Remember the Alamo." Our father was in the first charge in front. He got in two shots and had loaded his gun for the third shot and was running towards the front and a Mexican ball struck him down. That shot through the breast ended his fighting, but the Texan army of 782 men whipped the great Napoleon of the West with his picked men numbering about 1500 in about 20 minutes, killing nearly half of them and taking the balance prisoners. The greatest battle of the ages, taking into consideration the equipment of the Texans. The next day Sylvester and Roberson brought in old Santa Anna. He was a prisoner now in the hands of Houston. He Texas was going to be free, now we had the President and the General of the army a prisoner. Now our father was across the Bayou in the hospital at the home of De Zevalles nursing his wound. After two or three months he was able to leave the hospital. He worked his way back to old Washington where he started from.

Now we will leave father there for the present and bring in another character, our mother. Oh Mother! he sweetest morsel that ever man's tongue tasted is Mother! Now let me say to you children and the young men and boys and the girls of this audience, never forget mother. Young man, you may go down in the depths of crime and get behind the bars and all friends forsake you, but mother will be there to console you. Oh, daughter, you may go down the primrose path with your friends, but the day will come when they will all forsake you and you will be left alone on the desert of despair. Then mother will be reaching out her arms to you. Come to me and lay your weary head on mother's breast and sin no more. That is mother! Never forget her.

Now, our mother was from Tennessee. Along about 1820 in Murray county, Sadie Berryman and Archibald Powell were married. From that union there were four children born to them. Three girls and one boy. Mahala, Mary Ann and Myrian and Francis Marion was the boy named after Francis Marion who lived on roasted potatoes and fought the British and Tories in old Tennessee. Mary Ann was our mother. She was born January 2, 1823 in Murray County, Tenn. There they lived until sometime in 1833. Then there was a colony of people that made their arrangements to come to Texas. There were the Powells, Grimes, Ber-rymans, McIntires and Montgomerys. They all came out together. It was a long trip by wagons but they came along just the same. They got to the Sabine on Christmas Eve. There they camped for the night. The next morning they crossed the river and then they were in Texas. Mother says she ate Christmas dinner in Texas 1833. They moved on until 1836 when the Grimes County is now. They stopped there and built their cabins. Was living there during the trying times that were taking place in Texas at that time in 1836 when the Mexicans were sweeping the country. Said they were going to drive the Texans across the Sabine River. The Alamo had fallen, Fannin had been murdered, Houston with his brave band was maneuvering before the Mexican army.

Mother and all her people had to leave their home and go East. They got as far as the Trinity River and there they had to stop. The River was up and they could not cross. While there they got the news that Houston had met the Mexican army and defeated them and had taken old Santa Anna prisoner. He sent a runner for them all to come back home. Texas was free so they all came back to their homes all happy and satisfied.

Now fate played another of her tricks. You know we left father at old Washington nursing his wound, taking about one year for him to get well. So he got to come over in Grimes county amongst that colony from Tennessee and he fell in love with that little blue eyed Mary Ann Powell and they were married on the 25th day of September, 1838. There were ten children born to them. Seven lived to be grown, the other three died in infancy. Our brother Frank died in 1883, that left 6 of us to date. All together today except our youngest brother who is not able to be with us, Myself, Alonzo and Rado were born in Montgomery county, now Grimes county.

Friends, if any of you had been a spectator down in Grimes county, about the latter part of November 1844, you would have seen an old ox wagon, the old Texas kind with the old tar bucket hanging underneath on the camping pole, standing before our cabin you would have seen a small like man and a little blue-eyed woman and three little boys, one past five years old, one three years old and one about ten months old. Our father and mother were loading that wagon with their household goods. We did not have much to go in that wagon, no bed-stands. The bed-stands were a fixture to the cabin. One post bed-stand, no chairs. We used the old three-legged stool. Our cooking utensils consisted of skillet and lid, a frying pan and small pan and wash pot and the old spinning wheel that had to go to spin the thread to make our clothes. So the wagon was loaded, the oxen brought up and hitched to the wagon. Their faces turned to the Northwest. Our journey commenced. Another pioneer family going to the front to blaze the way for civilization to follow. We came on until we got to our journey's end, not far from where Groesbeck now is. There our cabin was built of logs and boards, no nails in it at all. That was the beginning of our residence in Limestone county. There were thirteen families here when we got here. Eliza Anglin and Moses Anglin, John Anglin, Abe Anglin, William Anglin, Logan Stroud, George Cox, Silas Bates, Forest Phibes, William Burns, Sam Nelson, John D. Smith and Bates, and our family, making fourteen and out of that fourteen families there are only three of us living, myself, Alonzo and Rado.

I want to say to you, my friends, that I grew to manhood here. The great Jehovah commanded to go forth, multiply and replenish the earth, so I went forth and followed His command. I have raised seventeen children in Limestone county, fourteen are living. I have 155 descendants in my family. There are over 250 descendants now from our father and mother. Our mother passed away on May the 9th, 1903 and our father passed away on July 8, 1911. They both sleep side by side in Mexia cemetery. They lived together nearly 65 years. God help us to follow in their foot steps and join them in the sweet by and by.

Now friends there is another subject I want to call your attention to. Myself, the oldest son of the last survivor of the battle of San Jacinto and his grandson and great grandson have procured a charter from the State of Texas to organize the Native Sons of Texas in a grand organization in memory of the heroes of the Alamo! in memory of Fannin's men who were slaughtered on the plains of Goliad! and, in memory of Sam Houston and his brave army who gained our Independence on the plains of San Jacinto! and in memory of our father whose blood was spilt on San Jacinto's plains for the liberties of Texas! in memory of the old pioneers and the little boys and girls who went to the front and drove the Indians back for civilization to follow.

That's what we want to organize the Native Sons of Texas for. To perpetuate those memories, to hand it down to future generations. Our plan that we have laid out for the future when we get funds enough is to buy a piece of land somewhere in the State and make a park and beautify it with native trees and native flowers and build a nice home in that park and we will call it Steele Park and home and we will dedicate it to the Native Sons of Texas for all time to come.

Then, sirs, I have in mind if we could carry it out, to build a monument at the entrance, of father on one side dressed in his soldier's garb and mother on the other side dressed in her home spun dress and bonnet. Then sirs, I would have an arch erected over the entrance "Welcome to our home, ye Native Sons of Texas." and in all I ask the great God of the Universe to give me health and strength and life to see that great object accomplished. Then sirs, when I pass over the great divide I want the Native Sons of Texas to bury me in one corner of the park and erect a plain slab at the head of my grave and inscribed there on, "Here lies Hampton Steele, the oldest son of Alphonza Steele, the last survivor of the Battle of San Jacinto." Then I want the Native Sons of Texas to plant seed of the Blue Bonnet over me and when the 21st of April comes around and the flowers are in bloom and the birds are singing their sweet song, I will be resting in my native soil with native flowers over me there to rest forever more. I thank you.

Three years in New York, two years in Chicago and nearly a year in Boston have delayed "Lightnin'" visits to less fortunate cities, but the famous comedy classic will soon be within easy reach of Mexia playgoers. It is announced for Saturday, September 29 at the Opera House, with the same brilliant cast seen recently in Dallas. "Lightnin'" will be introduced to the principal southwestern cities by an all star cast, headed by Thomas Jefferson and Bessie Bacon. It is easily the most brilliant organization now before the public according to the verdict of newspaper reviewers and local playgoers will be well rewarded for their long wait. Mr. Jefferson is the son of the late Joseph Jefferson, creator of "Rip Van Winkle" and Miss Bacon is a daughter of the late Frank Bacon. She appeared in her father's support for more than two years. Engagements of the company are restricted to the principal cities because of the unusual stage requirements for the famous courtroom scene "Lightnin'" can never be presented in the smaller ones.

GAME SEASON

The new Federal regulations for Texas on certain migratory game birds have been announced. The regulation pertaining to water-fowl (except wood duck, eider ducks and swans coot, gallinules, and Wilson snipe or Jassnipe has been amended to read "Waterfowl (except wood duck, eider ducks and swans) coot, gallinules and Wilson snipe or Jacksnipe shall be as follows: In that portion of Texas lying west and north of the main tracks of the International Great Northern Railroad, extending from Laredo to San Antonio, Austin and Longview and the Texas & Pacific Railroad extending from Longview to Marshall and Texarkana, the open season shall be from October 1 to January 15.

Open Season Set "In that portion of Texas lying south and east of the main tracks of the International and Great Northern Railroad, extending from Laredo to San Antonio, Austin and Longview and the Texas & Pacific Railroad tracks from Longview to Marshall and Texarkana the open season shall be from Nov. 1 to Jan. 31."

The regulation regarding the subtitle of the laws relating to doves has been amended to read as follows: "The open season for mourning doves shall be as follows: In that portion of Texas lying north of the main tracks of the International and Great Northern Railroad extending from Laredo to San Antonio, Austin and Longview, and the Texas & Pacific railroad from Longview to Marshall and Texarkana, the open season shall be from Sept. 1 to Dec. 15.

"In that portion of Texas lying east and south of the International and Great Northern Railroad from Laredo to San Antonio, Austin and Longview and the Texas & Pacific Railroad from Longview to Marshall and Texarkana the open season shall be from Nov. 1 to Dec. 31.

U. S. Law Takes Precedence The Federal law takes precedence over the State law where there is a conflict as to length of season. The State has the authority to make the open season shorter but not to extend the time at the beginning or the end.

Those towns and cities lying on the border of the two divisions of the State have an advantage over other parts of the State during the game season in that they may hunt during both seasons as they overlap and the season in the south and east extends beyond the close of that of the north and west.

Any person hunting protection must have license. Those may be secured through the County Clerks office.

Tiner Pitches Gushers To Victory Against Sherman

Leedy And Bechtol Each Get Three Base Hit In The Game, Crow a Homer

Playing brilliant ball behind brilliant pitching, the Gushers shut out Sherman here yesterday 5 to 0. Tiner, ace of the Gusher pitching staff, hurled an excellent brand of ball allowing the Sox only five hits, none of which were for extra bases. The Gushers hopped on Richburg, one of the best southpaws in the circuit, and garnered six hits off his delivery, four for extra bases. Crow hit a home run, Leedy a triple and Bechtol a double and a triple for a total of fourteen bases.

Long Tom Pyle collected two of the Sox hits but both were singles and therefore did no harm.

Things roiled along fine for the first four innings with Tiner and Richburg going fine. Sherman had nicked Tiner for one hit in the second and Richburg had not given up a hit.

In the Corsicana half of the fifth Johnson led off with a single to center. Spec Dockery then followed with a bunt which roiled safe, Tiner picking it up between second and first. Hollis then followed with a sacrifice, Crow to Leedy who covered first base. Heath then hit to Geppert who threw Johnson out at the plate. Richburg then ended the inning by grounding to Leedy.

In the Gusher half Bechtol led off with a double to right but Untz popped to left field and Geppert popped to first base. Whitney then came around with the much needed hit, a single to center scoring Bechtol. Tiner ended the fracas by popping to right field.

The Sox did not threaten at any other stages of the game as they only got two men on the cushions during the rest of the game.

In the seventh Butler fanned, Bechtol then cracked a three bagger down third base line. Untz then sent a long sacrifice fly to center, Bechtol scoring after the catch. Geppert flew out to right field for the third out.

In the eighth, the Gushers went wild after two were out. Whitney went out short to first. Tiner was safe when Heath missed his pop fly. Clopp sacrificed Richburg to McKay. Leedy hit a three bagger to center, scoring Tiner. Crow followed with a long hit to center which bounced over the fence and Leedy rushed in ahead of him. Butler then singled to right but Bechtol popped to McKay.

Bryan Rotarians Impressed With The Mexia Spirit But Try To Show What There Is To Bryan

The following is an article clipped from the Bryan Eagle of August 16th, which was a great deal of pleasure out of the trip.

"Bryan Rotarians have returned from Mexia saying, 'The half has not been told me.' Several were saying that the last time they saw Mexia it was in the clutches of an oil boom. Today it has emerged from the storm of the oil boom and is justly entitled to the name 'The City Beautiful.' While once 'Juarez' was a thorn in Mexia's side, today the most modern school houses, churches, paved streets, play grounds, parks, and other additions to the city are the pride of the Mexia people.

Visitors Met at Train

Bryan Rotarians were met at the train by a large transportation committee, composed of the leading citizens of Mexia, who carried them to the ball park where they witnessed a fast and snappy game between Mexia and Waco. Mexia lost by a score of 3-1, but Mexia team showed its fighting spirit until the last man was out. Immediately after the ball game, the Rotarians were driven over the tank farms and the oil fields that put Mexia on the map. At eight o'clock p. m., they were driven to the old Confederate reunion grounds which have been beautified by the civic pride of Col. E. A. Humphreys, president of the Mexia Rotary Club.

This park is on the banks of the Navasota river, and in addition to its natural advantages and beauties, it has paved highways, beautifully arched bridges, bubbling fountains and a most modern and up-to-date club house. At eight o'clock about 150 Rotarians and other citizens of Mexia, both men and women, extended Mexias warm hand of welcome to the Bryan Rotarians. The feed was in line with the other features and the choicest of barbecued meats and fowls, with all the trimmings, on which was red 'B' in honor of the Bryan Rotarians, were served. They served any form of drink that we could call for, containing less than the statutory two per cent. The Baptists and Methodists and all other denominations present chose the two per cent and called for glasses to be filled again.

Bryan Takes Charge

At eight-thirty, the program was turned over to the Bryan Rotarians, and this is one time Bryan Rotarians had to make good. The splendid reception and elaborate arrangements demanded that the Bryan Rotarians put forth their best effort, which all tried to do. The writer is not prepared to say how the program went over, but had the satisfaction that one always has when he has done his best. In keeping with the other good things at Mexia, our host was loud in its praise of the program. Bryan Rotarians are glad if they in anyway pleased Mexia.

The program rendered is briefly as follows. Doctor McKenzie, vice president of the Mexia Rotary Club, introduced 'Pat' Patterson, who in his big-souled way welcomed the Bryan Rotarian. This welcome address was briefly responded to by W. S. Barron, president of the Bryan Rotary Club, after which Gabe Canzani, song leader for the occasion, came forward with some of his Rotary songs accompanied by Miss Ruth Knox of Bryan. Sam Eberstadt of the Bryan Rotary Club, was then introduced as toastmaster of the occasion. Sam, with that tonic in his voice and good will beaming from his countenance, kept life and spice in the program to the last. He introduced in succession T. K. Lawrence, Marvin Wallace, E. E. McAdams, Bill Williamson and Judge W. C. Davis, who made talks, the key note address being made by Judge Davis. Miss Elizabeth Hilmyer rendered a vocal selection, which was encored to the limit. Iola Barron gave a reading. 'Country Doctor' J. W. Black and W. S. Barron were introduced to lead special songs. One of the best talks of the evening was made by Sankey Park. Sankey seldom assumes the role of orator, the program failed to include him on the list, but as Sankey was in his old home town near the old swimming hole on the Navasota and as he had his attractive young wife with him and as the folks in his new home were mingling with those of his old home, he was full to the hilt and felt so deeply that silence was impossible, and from the tone of his voice, we all

TWO HURT WHEN TRAIN HITS CAR NEAR TEAGUE

While A. W. Jensen and Harry Ives were crossing the T. & B. V. railroad near Teague Sunday afternoon, their car stopped on the tracks and was struck by a train. They were conveyed immediately to the Teague hospital and given treatment. They are reported resting nicely this afternoon, it being thought that their injuries are not serious. Mr. Ives states he did not see or hear the train.

CANADIAN WILD FOWL FURNISHES SPORT FOR U. S. SPORTSMEN

Although Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta are called prairie provinces, they possess many streams, lakes and ponds which are the habitat of vast numbers of water-fowl. As September approaches, a veritable army of hunters trek northward to enjoy this sport.

Despite the fact that wild-fowl seek territory removed from man's habitation, several varieties of wild ducks are to be found in large numbers in the agricultural sections of Manitoba and Saskatchewan. These birds are termed "domestic" and provide good sport. Among the waterfowl that frequent these two provinces one will usually find the blue bill, gadwall, a bird of extreme speed flight; butterball, very tasty; saw bill; blue teal, and red, green and white winged varieties; mallard, red and green head; and spoon bill. There is also a white duck that appears occasionally.

Shooting in this territory is attractive for several reasons. There is abundance of game and no great financial outlay is required. Where a camp is practical, but the single sportsman or a pair can usually obtain accommodations in a nearby farm house at reasonable rates.

In addition to the large variety of ducks, the yellow pouched pelican is seen occasionally, while Canada and wavey geese visit these waters every spring and fall on their way to and from the far north.

Golden plover and prairie chicken are found on the prairies, although the former departs early. More or less controversy as to proclaiming a closed period for prairie chicken has been waged for the past ten years, but they are still hunted. The bag limit is 20 birds a day. The season bag limit is 100 birds. A $25 license fee is exacted of non-residents in Manitoba and $15 in Saskatchewan. The season for wild duck and geese opens Sept. 15th, for other birds later dates. The Alberta season for ducks and geese opens Sept. 15 and the bird license is only $5. Duck shooting on Lake Island, on the outskirts of Vancouver, B. C. is very satisfactory, with many teal, widgeon and pintail as well. Non-resident bird license is $50 a season. The season opens Sept. 15th.
